For Use in Marketing, Website, and Client-Facing Communications To maintain the elevated, refined tone of our brand—while remaining approachable and grounded in the lives of the clients we serve—please adhere to the following visual standards when sourcing stock photography.

These guidelines are designed to reflect the firm's values of discretion, sophistication, and clarity, and to ensure all imagery contributes to a cohesive and professional visual identity.

1. Perspective & Composition

- Favor “window into the life” perspectives — Images should feel natural and observational. Subjects are typically not looking at the camera, and appear genuinely engaged in a task, moment, or setting.
- Avoid posed, artificial, or overly stylized shots in favor of candid realism and quiet moments.

2. Subject Matter Hierarchy

- For personal wealth imagery, prioritize the following, in order:
 - Places – Thoughtful, aspirational settings (homes, landscapes, travel, workspaces)
 - People – Individuals or small groups in relatable, purposeful action
 - Things – Lifestyle elements (journals, heirlooms, architecture) that support, but do not dominate, the visual story
- For institutional themes, use:
 - Editorial-style visuals of business, infrastructure, industry, or financial settings
 - Avoid abstract metaphors or visuals that don't directly reinforce the subject matter

3. Tone, Color, and Mood

- Favor a subtle blue hue or cool-neutral palette — Colors should feel stable, calming, and quietly confident.
- Understated tones and natural lighting are preferred. Avoid overly bright, heavily saturated, or artificially lit images.
- Steer clear of imagery that evokes unfavorable moods such as tension, isolation, or excess. The visual tone should convey professionalism, optimism, and clarity.

4. Demographic Representation

- Ensure inclusive representation of ethnicities, ages, and genders, consistent with the diversity of HNW and UHNW clients and professionals we serve.
- Portrayals should feel authentic and relevant to clients from a range of professions, industries, and life stages.

5. Wardrobe and Lifestyle Details

- When featuring dress clothes (suits, dresses, business attire), ensure they are well-fitted, well-pressed, and suited to the context.
- Avoid anything flashy, dated, or overly formal for the situation.
- Favor imagery that reflects understated luxury, quiet elegance, and elevated but natural settings.
- Avoid ostentatious, moody, or glamorized portrayals that feel disconnected from the client experience.

6. Brand Integrity

- Do not use images that contain alcohol, tobacco, firearms, or subjects who appear provocative, underdressed, or culturally insensitive.
- Ensure all images align with the firm's standards of integrity, respect, and professionalism.

7. Source Library

- Adobe Stock is the preferred source for image licensing due to consistency, image quality, and usage rights.
- Always use high-resolution images (minimum 300dpi for print or 1920px for web), properly licensed and verified for commercial use.

MARQUEE

USCW Marquee – this element should be kept small in size and can be used between headline and subhead or with text as a section separator etc. Always leave breathing room above and below the logo.
